Muscular Rheumatism OF LONG STANDING Cured!

A Dutiful Son Rejoices!

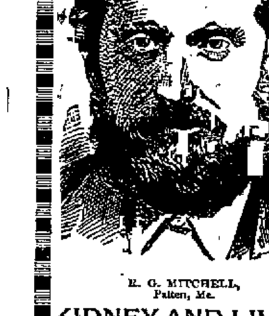

"The Kind that Never Fails"

Gentlemen:—I have had Rheumatism for a long time in my arms, back, and shoulders. It seemed to travel about, sometimes in one place, and sometimes in another. It often affected my stomach, and my whole system got out of order. I became reduced in flesh, and at times could not work. My aged parents were partly dependent on me for support, and my failing health was more than ordinarily a serious matter. Less than 4 bottles of Leon's Sarsaparilla has cured me, and I am now well and strong. I cannot express my gratitude for what your medicine has done for me.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS

John Read, of Lewiston, Passes Away at the Age of 83.

LEWISTON, May 22. John Read was stricken with paralysis, Sunday, and died in the night, aged 83. As a civil engineer he surveyed several Maine railroads and built the West Amesbury branch of the Boston and Maine Railroad and Sandy River Railroads. He was for several years County Commissioner. His last work was as Secretary of the Odd Fellows Relief Association from 1883 to 1892.

FROM BOOTHBAY HARBOR.

Ice Houses Burned.

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, May 22. The buildings of Echo Lake Ice Co., were destroyed by fire, last. The cause is unknown; insured.

FIRE IN MADISON.

Factory Burned.

MADISON, May 22. Six o'clock last evening, a fire broke out in a surplus bin over the boiler house of the Manufacturing Investment Company in the village, and the company's fire department was promptly on hand. The fire was extinguished in thirty minutes. The building destroyed was the third fire in the same building in one year; loss about $1,000.

OLDEST IN THE COUNTY.

Death of E. W. McFadden at Fairfield.

FAIRFIELD, May 22. E. W. McFadden, a prominent citizen, the oldest in Somerset county, died here this forenoon, aged 76. He was a life long Democrat and held many public offices. He was a prominent mason.

FIRE RECORD.

Cottage Burned—Three Children Perish in the Flames.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 22. The cottage on Grand Island, occupied by John Douney, wife and five children, was burned yesterday. Three of the children perished in the flames. It is supposed that the dog belonging to the family upset the table on which a lighted lamp was burning and thus caused the fire.

Livery Stable Burned—One Hundred and Fifty Horses Burned.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 22. The building occupied by C. M. Crumm Livery Company was burned early this morning. One hundred and fifty horses were burned to a crisp. The seven-year-old son of James Quinn, who lived on the second floor, was fatally injured; loss, $200,000.

CONNECTICUT OYSTER BEDS.

A Government Agent Reports the Damage by the Storm of April 20th and 21st at $2,000,000.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 22. D. C. Saufoul, appointed by the United States Government to make an investigation into the extent of the damage to the Connecticut oyster industry by the storm of April 20 and 21, has reported that $2,000,000 will be required to make the loss good.

COLORED DESPERADO.

Shoots His Wife and Fatally Injures His Father-in-Law.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 22. Allen Cousins, a colored desperado, shot and killed his wife and mortally wounded his father-in-law, at his home, in this city, last night.

COLLISION OF TRAINS.

Locomotive and Several Cars Wrecked.

PENACOOK, N. H., May 22. Trains number 70 and 77, on the Concord division of the Boston & Maine, came together on Dustion island, completely wrecking one engine and badly damaged the other. Several cars were wrecked. No one was hurt.

AFFAIRS AT NICARAGUA.

A Decisive Battle Fought—President Sacaza Declares Himself Dictator.

NEW YORK, May 22. The Herald's Granada, Nicaragua, special says: What is believed to be the decisive battle of the revolution was begun Sunday, at Barranea, near Massaya. The outcome is not yet known.

The Advertiser's special from Managua, Nicaragua, says: President Sacaza declared himself dictator last Saturday night, and proclaimed martial law throughout the entire Republic. By this act constitutional guarantees are suspended and the country is virtually under one man's rule.

MARINE DISASTER.

Steamer Sighted on Fire Off Egg Rock, Massachusetts.

LYNN, Mass., May 22. Late yesterday afternoon spectators along the beaches of Lynn and Swampscott made out the burning of a steamer or a steam yacht to the southeast. She was a small craft painted white. No signals of distress were seen nor the putting off of boats with those on board. The atmosphere was thick with haze and even with glasses the view was dim and indistinct. After a half hour's watching the vessel disappeared. When last seen she was a mile or two outside of Egg Rock.

TWO MEN DROWNED

By the Capsizing of a Boat.

NEW HAVEN, May 22. A cat boat containing Harvey W. Holcomb, twenty-one, Alfred S. Holt, twenty, and Clarence W. Webb, twenty-three, was capsized just outside of the harbor, last night. Holcomb and Holt were drowned. Webb was rescued.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

Bills Reported and Introduced.

BOSTON, May 22. The Senate to-day refused to suspend the rules to admit the House resolutions against the opening of the World's Fair on Sunday.

In the House Mr. Rivers, of Milton, introduced resolutions, denouncing the Geary Chinese exclusion law as inconsistent with the fundamental principles of international procedure, and as an arbitrary abrogation of the rights established by the treaty between the United States and the Chinese Empire, and requesting the President of the United States to recommend to Congress at its next session a repeal of this unjust, unwise and un-American piece of legislation.

The Committee on Finance reported to-day, ought to pass on rapid transit bill. Two members dissent.

LIZZIE BORDEN TRIAL.

Uncertain When it Will Take Place.

TAUNTON, Mass., May 22. The long confinement and approaching trial are rapidly unnerving Lizzie Borden. If she continues on the grade down which she is travelling, the trial will not take place June 5th, perhaps not at all, in the way marked out by the authorities and defence. The jury may be a commission of physicians, in spite of protestations of her counsel at the preliminary hearing in Fall River.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Enthusiastic Demonstration of the Irish National League.

LONDON, May 22. The demonstration of the Irish National League of Great Britain, in Hyde Park, yesterday, was a most enthusiastic affair. About 250,000 people were present, and delegates attended from all branches of the league in the United Kingdom. Resolutions were adopted approving Gladstone's Home Rule plan.

Brazilian War Vessel Wrecked.

PORT SAID, May 22. The Brazilian vessel, Almerante Barrosa, has been wrecked near Ras Gharch, on the coast of ... Egypt, in the Gulf of Suez. The vessel will be a total wreck.

AN UPRISING FEARED.

Occasioned by the Decision in the Geary Law.

The Chinese Quarter in San Francisco Under Heavy Guard.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22. The Chinese quarter is under heavy guard. There have been fears of an outbreak among high binders ever since the decision upholding the Geary law was announced, but nothing happened to justify them until yesterday morning, when the body of a Chinese, named Ah Foo, was found in the bar. He had been shot and stabbed by highbinders for refusing to pay the tribute. At 3 A. M. Edward Hughes, a white man, was set upon by a crowd of thugs. His skull was fractured by a blow with a cloth covered bar of iron, and one ear was nearly sliced off. The highbinders escaped. It is believed another big highbinder war will be inaugurated within the next few days.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

Building Wrecked and Several Persons Injured.

KEENE, N. H., May 22. A battery of five boilers in the Beaver Mills exploded at 12.20, badly wrecking the building and killing and injuring a number of persons. Hubbard Houghton was killed; Lewis Starkey is undoubtedly dead, but the body has not been found; Robert Broulette fatally injured. It is not yet known whether all the dead and injured have been found. The workmen had mostly left the building but some had gathered in the boiler room to smoke and eat dinner.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Death of a Noted Journalist and Civil Engineer.

WASHINGTON, May 22. Chauncey H. Snow, a journalist and civil engineer, died here yesterday, aged 60 years. He was one of the corps of engineers who constructed the Hoosac tunnel and rendered valuable service to the government of his feats of engineering during the civil war. He was the government director of the Union Pacific Railroad, and his report led to the Credit Mobilier investigation.

Striking Shoe Stitchers Return to Work.

DOVER, N. H., May 22. The stitchers at Martin's shoe shop, who struck last Monday, returned to work to-day, the firm agreeing to pay them every week.

Corinth Items.

The season is very backward, and our farmers have done but little of their planting.

The contractors are well under way in laying the foundation and framing the dwelling house to be erected by Mr. Brown, on Maple street. This will probably be the largest and most expensive house in town, and is to stand on the site of the late homestead of Ex-Governor Davis. The humble little cottage in which Mr. Davis lived when he was elected Governor, has been torn down to make room for the more stately and elegant residence; but the old land-mark will be missed, and the many happy associations connected with the spot will long be remembered by a large number of Mr. Davis' friends, who in other days frequently met him at this, the home of his early manhood.

The spring term of East Corinth Academy which has just closed was in every way one of the most successful ever known in the history of the institution. A. W. Meserve, A. M., as principal, and Cora Knight Clifford, A. B., as preceptress, have proved to be very efficient, popular and successful teachers.

The graduating class numbered thirteen, and their parts were all well written and delivered. The trustees are very fortunate in securing the services of Prof. Meserve for another year. His scholarly attainments, studious habits and successful experience, united with the constant and earnest interest which he manifests for the general progress of his pupils, can not fail to continue this school in the advanced position it now occupies. Mr. Meserve is a graduate of Bowdoin, is liked by all and is attracting to this school an excellent class of pupils.

It is with much regret that the trustees are unable to retain Mrs. Clifford as preceptress. Being a lady of culture and refinement, a thorough scholar, and a teacher of long and successful experience, her work here has been marked with the best of success. Mrs. Clifford is a graduate of The Maine Wesleyan Female College. We understand she has accepted a position in a seminary in another State. An experienced teacher and college graduate will be employed as preceptress, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Clifford.

The Penobscot Central Railroad question has revived, and there seems to be strong hopes that sufficient bonds will be sold to warrant the building of the road.

Corinth is one of the most desirable towns in many respects in the State; and with a railroad, its location, agricultural excellence, its water powers and general thrift would make it a very thriving center for the surrounding country. But as it is, no better town of its kind can be found in this county.

The Programme Reversed.

Many Washington girls can boast of eccentric accomplishments, but one of the most unusual is that of Miss Elliott, daughter of Colonel Elliott, of the United States engineering corps. Colonel Elliott is one of the most skilled engineers in the government service. He has no son and his daughter has been his constant companion. She went with him continually when he was superintending government work, studied his plans, and as a result has developed into a pretty good engineer herself. She is interested in machinery, and can discuss it more intelligently than the average man. Recently a friend of the colonel's met the family on one of the sound steamers, where it is considered a great treat to be taken down to see the engine room. The gentleman thought he would give Miss Elliott an unusual pleasure, and suggested a visit below. When they reached the engine room he tried to explain the machinery but stumbled. Miss Elliott filled in the missing knowledge, and pretty soon the programme was reversed and the young lady was showing off the engines to her astonished escort, while the engineer smiled in wicked glee. Miss Elliott is a slender little lady, whose appearance gives no hint of her store of technical information.—Kate Field's Washington Letter.

MAINE'S RESOURCES.

Mr. Blanchard's Map Shows Maine to be a Big State with Great Possibilities—An Important Contribution to the World's Fair.

"Maine is a great State, and I can prove it to you," said Mr. Fred Blanchard, the engraver, as the Times man gazed at the wonderful map which goes to the World's Fair next week, says the Bath Times. The map is a large one and superbly decorated and embellished. It gives a very clear showing of the location of the State's principal industries and its undeveloped resources. It is done in colors and a key at the bottom fully explains it. All the cities and towns are indicated in special colors. The timber land and agricultural portions are neatly pictured out, as are the resorts, fishing ponds, etc. There are cotton mills, woolen mills, oil cloth factories, paper and pulp mills, shipbuilding sections, tanneries, starch factories, the lime industry, granite quarries, slate works, ice fields, saw mills, canning factories, the line of the principal steamboats, and everything our State is engaged in or has facilities for engaging in, and each is given its proper position and coloring.

This will be an excellent advertisement for our State as it shows our attractions and facilities as nothing ever has before. A large part of the map is devoted to showing our wonderful water power, developed and undeveloped. In the whole State there are 2,204 superb water powers. Penobscot leads off with 347, all developed, and little Sagadahock has the least, but we shall see a change in this before long. Sagadahock only shows 41 on this map. Just wait a bit on this matter, however.

Aroostook is a country with a vast amount of undeveloped power but the map shows about 300 water privileges in use. The hydrographic part of the map is one of its features, showing up the lakes, rivers and ponds, falls and descents.

The lakes and ponds of Maine are at a higher elevation than those of any other State, which makes them invaluable for driving machinery. It is believed by many that in a few years the art of transferring water power from the interior to the coast will be developed and then Maine will rise to an industrial importance she has never before attained. These great reservoirs if properly cared for, cannot be dried up. If all our immense tract of forest was cleared away these great natural reservoirs could not be destroyed. No section of this country is so situated and the map makes this clear to the scientists and engineers who will flock to Chicago this summer.

Over half of Maine is still to be developed. We have a forest seven times greater than the Black Forest of Germany, famous in history and story. The States of Rhode Island, Connecticut and Delaware could be lost in this tract of valuable timber land, and there would be a fringe of forest through which it would be hazardous to penetrate without a guide. Who shall develop these great tracts and make the wild places hum with the busy shuttle? The State believes some one will, and hence they seek Mr. Blanchard's assistance to advertise.

But there is another great part of the State that is developed. We have 1,100 saw mills cutting into this great forest for us, 150 factories canning the best sweet corn in the world,—in fact we had in '87 over 4,856 great industries flourishing and increasing, and we have greatly added to that since. Our paper and pulp mills, it is seen, beat the world. In fact we have several things in which we excel.

The map shows the largest paper mill in the world, at Westbrook; the largest pulp fibre mill in the country at Anson. The most extensive ice houses are shown on the Kennebec, that can be found anywhere in the world, and they are filled with the best ice. In some seasons a million and a half tons can be seen here. At Medway, in Penobscot, are the most extensive tanneries in the United States, covering acres of territory.

There are ninety-seven granite quarries, Knox county leading off. Piscataquis and Somerset are great places for slate, there being vast stores still untouched. This is the first map to show the location of the ice fields and the new industries of Aroostook county as well as many other things.

There is considerable work devoted to the lime industry which is a special feature of Maine. Other states have lime but not of the Maine kind.

We have five oil cloth factories, one located in this city, and the best oil cloth is made of any other section of the country. This is pure Yankee genius, as we have no special facilities for this work. Some of our paper mills are monsters and new ones are constantly going up, as it is Maine's strongest hold. There is one silk factory and many other industries in their infancy.

This map will be a feature of the Maine exhibit and Mr. Blanchard is justly proud of it. It shows us to be a great State, with our industrial life mostly before us. These little things will put us before the world in the right light.

MR. GRANT SAYS FAREWELL.

Dinner Given to the Retiring Minister by Americans in Vienna.

VIENNA, May 20, 1893. Eighty members of the Anglo-American colony gave a farewell dinner at the Hotel Bristol this evening to Frederick D. Grant, the retiring United States Minister.

A letter from Mrs. Grant expressing her gratitude for the kindness shown her during her sojourn in Vienna was read, and Mr. Grant replied at length to the toast proposed to his health. He said he had exerted himself to cultivate the feeling of sympathy already existing between the United States and Austria. But few difficulties had ever perturbed the relations of the two Powers, and these had eventually served only to strengthen the bonds of friendship.

He was glad, he said, to see so many Englishmen present. They were cousins of the Americans, who were always pleased to recall the relationship. He drank to the prosperity of Austria, England and the United States.

Vice Consul Otto Mass said Mr. Grant had endeared himself to the agents of the United States in Austria and that all regretted his departure. Several other members of the legation who had won many friends during their sojourn in Vienna would leave with the Minister. The whole Anglo-American colony regretted the necessity of saying farewell to them. Mr. Gordon, pastor of the English church, and Director Krause proposed the health of Mr. Grant and the prosperity of the United States.

USE LEON'S SARSAPARILLA,
"THE KIND THAT NEVER FAILS."

Life is short and time is fleeting, but Hood's Sarsaparilla will bless humanity as the ages roll on. Try it this season. 7

MOTHER AND CHILD ARE DOING WELL.

Mrs. Brown was sick. Her friends said she would "never get well." "What's the trouble?" "O, some kind of female weakness." The doctors have given up her case as hopeless. "She may live for some time," they say, "but as for a cure, that is quite out of the question."

"I don't believe it," said a woman, who heard the sad news. "I don't believe she's any worse off than I was five years ago, from the same trouble, and I don't look very much like a dead woman, do I?" She certainly did not, with her red, plump cheeks, bright eyes, and 150 pounds of good healthy bone, blood and flesh. "I'm going to see her and tell her how she can get well." She did so. She advised Mrs. Brown to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Mrs. Brown took the advice, also the medicine which cures all kinds of delicate diseases so common among women, and—got well. That was two years ago. Last month she presented Mr. Brown with a ten-pound boy, and mother and child are doing well.

MAINE MELANGE.

Sensitive Character of the Dogs in Auburn.

The Eratic Habits of Fruit and Salmon.

Androscoggin.

John B. Smith, of Lewiston, has a claim against the Atkinson House Furnishing Company, and has brought suit and attached property in the sum of $1,700.

The Turner Center Creamery made over four tons of butter at its factory in Turner the other day. It is understood that the association thinks of opening a store in Boston before long.

A dairyman at Greene, who sends his milk to Portland, tells the Journal that he gets his milk to Portland for two cents a can, while the lowest rates he can get it to Lewiston is ten cents.

Sheriff Hill has a place fixed up for the reception of liquors, seized by the various officers, in the basement of the county buildings. He mixes and ships the liquors as often as there is enough to make five barrels. Eleven barrels were shipped in the last shipment, however.

Up to Friday night the Auburn dog officers had killed, or caused to be killed, thirty-four dogs. They find that it is not always the case that a dog without a collar is a dog without a license. The necks of some dogs are larger than their heads, and it would be impossible to make a collar stay on. Then again, there are dogs who can't bear collars or anything around their necks. The Auburn officers have found several of these sensitive kind of dogs. Whenever an attempt is made to put a collar on them they thrash around so that the owners are obliged to give it up. They really think if the collars were allowed to remain that the dogs would become insane—mad, you know.

Aroostook.

The record of the Aroostook Superior Court, now gone out of existence, shows that it has disposed of 4,000 cases in eight years.

Cumberland.

After a recent storm a party of gentlemen went to the Cape to see the breakers. Some of the party in order to get a better effect went out on the rocks. One, a leading dentist in this city, more daring than the others, ventured too far. He was struck by a breaker and was barely saved from being washed into the ocean, says the Portland Express.

Apropos of the above is the following from the Fort Fairfield Beacon: The Beacon correspondent recently returned from a trip to Portland, where he witnessed a storm of unusual severity. He listened to what the wild waves were saying on Cape Elizabeth, and was not particularly charmed with the manner in which the old ocean cut up. The waves dashed to the top of the light house, 100 feet high. It was a grand sight for an Aroostook man to look at, but for safety he prefers a potato field here to the waters of the Atlantic.

Fifty-four Canadians last evening joined the society of the Ancient Order of Foresters. This society, on the death of a member, pays $100 to his widow, or to his parents if he is not married; if it is the wife who dies the husband gets $50. It gives more than $1 a week to sick members, and furnishes free the doctor and medicine. Catholics are permitted by the church to join this secret society.

Franklin.

Mrs. Florence Ella Barker, wife of Capt. F. C. Barker, died at Rangely, Friday, May 12. Capt. Barker, her husband, is well known to all sportsmen who are visitors at Rangeley. His winters have always been spent in Boston where he has many friends.

Kennebec.

The recent freshet will prove costly to the owners of the mills up river. Their logs, which have been carried down, must now be sold as it will be impossible to get them back. As the log market is in a bad condition, these owners will lose by a forced sale. The down river mills will, however, benefit by the breaking away of the booms, for they will get their logs several weeks earlier than usual. On account of the light drive last year but few logs were carried over, so this early arrival of the logs will enable these mills to avoid shutting down.

The machinery in the Hollingsworth & Whitney Co's. new paper mill was started, by steam power, for trial, Friday. All the ponderous machinery ran perfectly and there was not a hot box in the whole mill which speaks not a little for the skill of the engineers and machinists who have been putting the various machines in position. This trial start was made under direction of Chief Engineer G. A. Oliver and Supt. Boston, who were very much pleased with the result.

Knox.

There are some symptoms of disunion among the labor unions of Rockland. The Opinion says the carpenters' union went ahead and made a compromise with their employers on the nine hour issue, without consulting the masons' union and painters' union, who are left in the lurch. Nevertheless it is well for each union to manage its own affairs. If this practice had been adhered to generally, there would have been less trouble and tribulation.

It is a busy place in J. E. Dailey's Camden boat-shop and yard. He has just finished a sloop yacht 24 feet long for Mr. Homer, of Philadelphia, who owns a cottage at Islesboro. He has also just finished three row boats for J. M. Bennett, of Castine, and four for Mt. Desert parties. He sent one tender to Boston, last week, is at work upon another, and several others ordered.

Ezra Bramhall, of Camden, is putting the finishing touches on the steam yacht "Hiawatha," which is 53 feet long, the largest he has ever built. The wood work of the hull is finished, and the painting is nearly done. The deck finish, combing, seats and awning are in native wood of ash, walnut and pine. The engine was shipped May 6th by the Boston & Bangor steamboat line, but has been laying over on the freight house in Boston, on account of press of freight. She will be ready to launch about May 30th, and is a handsome craft.

Piscataquis.

In 1891 so few salmon were taken in Ship pond (Lake Onaway) there was a good deal said about its being 'fished out' because the railroad had brought in an unusual number of fishermen. But last year there was as good fishing there as ever was known in Piscataquis county. And that's the way, everywhere, when they stop biting it is a freak of the fish, and not because they've all been caught.

Waldo.

President B. L. Whitman, of Colby University, will deliver the address before the meeting of the Waldo County Young People's Christian Union, at Liberty, June 2.

When a Belfast man brought home a cod, fresh from the sea, the other day, his wife gave it a poke. "Bish, bang!" went its tail, crash went the dishes, while the startled lady screamed for her husband to kill the fish. When she was cooking the poor fish into chowder, evidently her fears were not allayed, for she placed a flatiron on the cover of the kettle.

Washington.

Salmon fishing at Grand Lake has been good the past week. The fish appear to be more numerous than for several seasons. Rodsmen uniformly report good luck.

Capt. Homer, of the steamer Winthrop, sustained a slight shock of paralysis, Monday, and was forced to leave the boat at Eastport. He hopes to return to his command in a few weeks.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Maine Shore Line Railroad Company will be held at Libby Hall, Machias, on Wednesday, June 7th, at ten o'clock in the forenoon. The stockholders are to take important action and directors are to be elected for the ensuing year.

The West Washington Y. P. S. C. E. Union will convene with the Y. P. S. C. E. at Milbridge, east side of river, June 28, 1893. A general good time is expected. There will be ten or more of the clergy to help make the gathering both interesting and instructive. There will be a picnic supper. The evening meeting will be at the Union meeting house, west side.

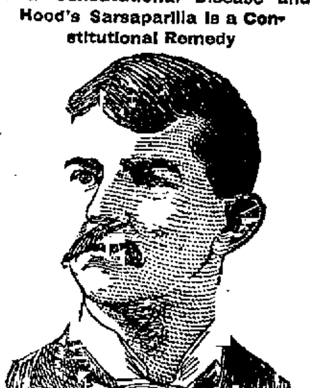

Memorial Day orations will be delivered as follows, in this county: George E. Googins, Esq., of Milbridge, at Cherryfield; Frank Wiggin, Esq., of Bangor, at Machias; Hon. C. A. Boutelle, of Bangor, at Eastport; Hon. Herbert M. Heath, of Augusta, at Calais; Judge C. B. Rounds, of Calais, at Lubec.

The large base of the soldier's monument was hauled from the Maine Red Granite Works, Red Beach, to the wharf Monday. It will be loaded on the sloop Rocky Mountain for shipment to Calais. It weighs about ten tons. The stone was from the company's quarry at Beaver Lake and is considered a very nice piece of stone. The balance of the monument is about finished and will be forwarded and set up in a few days.

Hood's Cures

Catarrh in the Head

Is a Constitutional Disease and Hood's Sarsaparilla is a Constitutional Remedy

William H. King
Haverhill, Mass.

"I have been a victim of catarrh for ten years. It has kept my head feeling badly with a sense of fullness and ringing in the ears. Instead of discharge from the nose, as many have, it has acted so that either one or the other of my nostrils has been tightly closed up so that

I Could Not Breathe

through it, nor would blowing the nose clear it. I tried several catarrh cures and different treatments, but failed to get any relief. At last reading of permanent cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla I determined to give it a fair honest trial. I have now finished four bottles and am satisfied it has effected a cure, for the catarrh no longer troubles me a particle, and I feel better in every way than I have for years. I am very

Grateful at the Result

And if what I have said of the benefit I have obtained be of any use in persuading others to

GENTS:—We cannot be too grateful, for the benefit our little babe derived, from the use of SKODA'S REMEDIES. When less than 9 months old, his face broke out with a Terrible Eczema. The itching and burning caused him to scratch so much that his cheeks became raw, and bled considerably. He suffered extremely. We gave him 3 drop doses of the DISCOVERY internally, used the SOAP and OINTMENT externally, and in a few weeks he was perfectly cured, and is to-day a rugged, healthy boy.

Respectfully,

No REMEDIES in the world equal SKODA'S, for Blood and Skin Diseases. Endorsed, and used by Physicians, are they not worthy your trial?

This great remedy is rapidly coming into public favor. The picture you see here is a little girl from Corinth, Me., whose life was saved by it.

After trying several known remedies and they had failed, she tried GASTROSIS CURE and it fanned the little spark back to life and health.

We can show you a little girl in Bangor who has taken GASTROSIS CURE for two years and there is not a girl in the city who can show a healthier picture than this little girl. "Mothers," think of this.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

TUESDAY, MAY 23, 1893.

The Hawaiian Situation.

The Brooklyn Standard-Union draws some interesting conclusions from the letters written by Mr. Charles Nordhoff on the Hawaiian situation. It says: Mr. Charles Nordhoff, the Herald's special commissioner in the Sandwich Islands, is a much more important commissioner than Mr. Blount, who has played his part under instructions. Mr. Nordhoff is opposed to annexation, but has reported many things that count in aid of that policy. He has interviewed the sugar king, Spreckles, who says the sugar industry is the only important one on the island, and

"the island planters have been compelled, in order to compete successfully with other sugar raising countries, to negotiate for a class of labor competent to do plantation work at a rate of wages which would admit of a profit to the planters."

Observe carefully the reference to the rate of wages. The restrictions upon Asiatic immigration were removed to permit the "cheap Chinese labor," and the Japanese also. Mr. Spreckles further said:

"Asiatic labor is necessary to sugar planting here. We do not profit, but we dependent on it. Some planters here still hope that the United States would agree to accept us with a maintenance of our labor system and laborers. You will find, if you ask them, that they are for annexation on that condition, but not without.

"If the sugar industry were destroyed the islands would collapse into a big cow pasture, which they were before sugar was begun. But for sugar culture they are admirably suited, so long as we can be sure of labor at a reasonable price, and under such conditions that laborers shall not be able to combine to take advantage of our necessities."

Mr. Nordhoff bears testimony further that the Provisional Government is established and firm. He says:

"If there were not a man-of-war in the harbor the Provisional Government has abundant force to put down riot or insurrection; and it is generally believed that Mr. Dole and Mr. Dawson and their fellow rulers have the determination to use this force if necessary."

It is proposed to have a sedition law and to expel foreigners. Mr. Nordhoff writes:

"There is talk also of reviving a law for expelling a few foreigners who are thought to be troublesome, and, of course, a government has a right to order out of its domain any foreigner who does not conduct himself in an orderly way.

"I am trying to show you that there is a government which shows in all its acts that it is master of the country, and is able to put down whoever opposes it, and that the talk about the necessity of annexation or a protectorate to secure a stable government is bosh. The plain truth is that if the Boston and Adams should sail out of port to-morrow, and if President Cleveland should send down by the mail to-morrow notice that he would hear no more of annexation, nothing would happen except that Mr. Dole and his associates could drop the word 'provisional' out of their title and calmly go on ruling."

Perhaps Mr. Nordhoff does not know the importance of what he is saying, but we presume he does. He confirms the view we have taken from the first, and that recently we have urged upon public attention most seriously. The first proposition is that the Provincial Government is in power and does not depend upon the American flag and marines. It is the more preposterous, therefore, to be submitting to the tyranny of Blount as Commissioner, and it would be intolerable to allow him to serve as Minister and antagonize the primary policy of the Government.

Mr. Nordhoff complains that there are annexationists not citizens, which is not surprising, considering the curious composition of the population; and he adds:

"The Annexation Club, which has its headquarters in the business part of the town, and flaunts an American flag, has a large membership of men of all nations."

It seems to be thought a pity that the American flag should still be flaunted in some quarters, though Mr. Cleveland's personal ambassador pulled it from the official flagstaff.

Mr. Nordhoff's letter establishes three propositions:

1. That the sugar planters have a system of slavery that they call contract labor, and are opposed to annexation. They want a Government they can control. They filled the islands with there Asiatic slaves, and these have debauched and corrupted the natives.

2. The Provisional Government is able take care of itself, and therefore the revolution is actually accomplished. The Mugwump story, reflecting the Cleveland prejudice and policy, that the Government was the creature of the late Minister and marines, is destroyed. The government is on its own legs, and can send Mr. Blount and Mr. Spreckles both out of the island as persons whose presence has a tendency to produce disorder.

3. The American flag is still floating over the club house, and the paramount Blount has not had the presumption to pull it down.

The points are in direct opposition to the whole theory and conduct of the Cleveland Administration, and display the meddlesome nature of the proceedings of the commissioner, while they demonstrate that he should be ordered away from Honolulu. There he means mischief. Anywhere else he would be harmless.

Mr. Nordhoff publishes a translation from a native "appeal," and describes it as:

"A native production, but it means to me a touching appeal from a weak people to a powerful country for justice and honorable treatment."

The touching appeal contains many references to the friendly relations with the United States, and closes:

"We have not, however, thought that the time had arrived when our name as a nation and sovereignty should be taken away, or the country be annexed to some other power. Therefore ... we hereby appeal with the gre... ...est hope and with the expectation that the wrongs we claim have been done us will be settled by returning our independence and also restoring the constitutional monarchy under our most beloved Queen Liliuokalani, a ruler greatly beloved and appreciated by the nation."

This was signed "by the delegates of all the islands," and is the product of "the patriotic league to be presented to Commissioner Blount."

It follows, according to the Nordhoff correspondence, that Blount is expected to take in hand the overthrow of the Provisional Government and the restoration of the "beloved Queen." That seems to be the policy of the Cleveland-Gresham-Blount Administration, and the Provisional Government should make an end of it by ordering the obnoxious Commissioner-Minister to go home.

Mr. Boutelle's Speech on Pensions.

[From the Kennebec Journal, May 22.]

We present our readers to-day with the full text of the great speech of Hon. Charles A. Boutelle, the able and accomplished representative from the Fourth Congressional District, delivered in the House of Representatives, in February last. In these days of hypocritical degenerate administration of the national government, when those who but a few years ago, with treason and murder in their hearts, attempted the very life of the nation, are engaged in the pleasant pastime of assaulting the laws for pensioning and protecting the men who stood for the Union in its sorest hour of trial; when "reconstructed" rebels are in full authority in the National Congress and in the Cabinet, and are occupying places of high power and trust at home and abroad under the present vacillating Administration; when the country's flag has been torn by rebel hands from its staff at Honolulu where it had been raised for the protection and preservation of paramount American interests by a patriotic and liberty-loving Minister, we believe we can do our readers no better service than by presenting them with the full text of Mr. Boutelle's admirable speech. It is the speech of a patriot who himself stood in the vanguard of the country's defenders in the crucial test of war.

No man in Maine, or throughout the entire country, is better fitted by reason of his unflinching personal courage, his brilliant attainments, his sincerity of purpose, his pure and honorable life, to give expression to the thoughts, the wishes, the hopes, and fears of the loyal and patriotic men of the nation than is Charles A. Boutelle. We commend his forceful and eloquent words to the careful attention of our readers.

The Kennebec Journal yesterday printed the full text of Mr. Boutelle's speech on the Democratic assault upon the pension laws, delivered in the House of Representatives on the 15th of February last. It occupies six columns of the Journal and is printed with remarkable accuracy. The speech is very strongly commended to its readers by a vigorous and very complimentary editorial from the pen of ex-Governor Burleigh, which we copy on this page with our appreciative acknowledgments to our Augusta contemporary.

What Form of Policy is most Desirable?

That depends on circumstances. For those who can pay the larger premiums, a whole life policy, with all premiums to be paid up in ten, fifteen, twenty, or twenty five years, is the most desirable; for the burden of paying premiums is limited to a comparatively short time, and the whole insurance then becomes paid up, and if afterward the insurance becomes unnecessary, it can be surrendered for a cash value proportioned to the increased premium.

Well he has been quietly exploring the Penobscot to see if those "notorious captains" had left any place where a fish might accidentally visit. He found such a place and out of it he pulled the largest lot shown in any market this season. I also wish to inform the public that I make a specialty of handling PENOBSCOT SALMON and have not in the past and will not in the future handle any but the same. The largest part of my salmon trade is shipping and I know whereof I speak, when I say I have in the last five years shipped more than any concern in Bangor and also that I have never handled a St. John fish. Now if you want to ship to a friend call at the ONLY PLACE in Bangor where they sell Penobscot Salmon exclusively. I warrant every fish I send out to reach its destination in perfect condition. The Fourth Week

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, Chicago, May 22 The fourth week of the exposition opened auspiciously to-day in point of weather and attendance The Swiss exhibit in the Manufacturers and Liberal Arts Building is temporarily closed. James Perrenoud, the Swiss commissioner, claims that his government has been treated with indignity by the United States customs officers and has ordered the Swiss section closed until the Minister of Switzerland at Washington, who has been notified, has obtained satisfaction

Saturday afternoon, P B Nemitz, the agent of the Swiss exhibitors, was arrested selling a diamond brooch held in bond by a United States custom officer As soon as he was arrested two customs officers were put in charge of the exhibit, which was closed by them Commissioner Perrenoud did not hear of it till late Saturday night

He at Once Sent

a despatch to the Swiss Minister at Washington notifying him of the alleged indignity and pending settlement Commissioner Perrenoud temporarily closed the Swiss exhibit

Speaking of the affair this morning he said he did not hold the United States officers in wrong in arresting the agent but claimed that he as the representative of Switzerland should have first been communicated with "As soon as I heard of Nemitz's arrest" he continued "I formally dismissed him from the service But I claim the Swiss exhibit is practically Swiss land and the United States officers have no right to trespass Without saying a word to me they took possession of certain subjects of the government of Switzerland and placed it in charge of United States officers

Monday at the Exposition

CHICAGO May 22 Vice-President Stevenson visited the World's Fair in an informal way to-day

The National Commission to-day unanimously adopted a resolution providing for the appointment, by the President of two members whose duty shall be to consult the United States District Attorney at Chicago and assist him in reference to defending suits begun by C W Clingman, exposition stockholder to enjoin the directors and south park commissioners from keeping the gates of the fair closed on Sunday

The World's Press Congress

opened [illegible] in the Art Palace on the lake front A public reception was held to-day in the large hall of the palace, President [illegible] and the officers auxiliary the president of the women's branch and the committee on arrangements acting as host

Among the participants was Col McClure of Philadelphia, Governor Peck, of Wisconsin A F Pierce president of the Canadian Press Association, Walter Williams president of the National Editorial Association Frederick Villiers, of London noted war correspondent, Theodore Stanton of Paris, J e Howard and Murat Halstead of New York Marquis de Castelnau Lubat, of France P de Gloukhovski and [illegible] of Russia, Dr Adolfo Ernest, of Venezuela, Dr Carlos P Callardo, of the Argentine Republic Capt Ad Penhem of Brazil, Friederich Landy Helm and Dr Emil Blum of Vienna Philip Berger of Hamburg Fred Dernberg and Dr Keisler, of Berlin Pascal David, of Cologne

Not More Than 25 000 People

saw the Exposition to-day The early hour gave promise of a serene summer day but in a short time the windy city became windier than usual, and in spite of a score of watering carts covering the roadways with spray dust filled the air and drove the visitors to the interior of the buildings

Matter Adjusted

The trouble over the arrest of the man in charge of the Swiss exhibits at the World's Fair for selling bonded goods, was satisfactorily adjusted. Nemitz is still in charge of the customs officers The Swiss exhibit will be opened to-morrow

The Sunday Question

The National Commission received reports of the Judiciary Committee on the Sunday opening question to-day The majority of the committee reported adversely to the directory resolution to revoke the rule closing the gates Sunday The minority favored Sunday opening The matter will come up as a special order in the commission to-morrow

Maine at the Fair

Among the notable visitors to the exposition to-day were Gov Cleaves of Maine, and Staff The dedication of the Maine building will take place May 24

Hon Hall C Burleigh, president of the Maine Board of World's Fair Managers, will deliver the building to Governor Cleaves representing the State of Maine Gov Cleaves will tender the building to the public A response will be made in behalf of the Maine-born citizens and public by Hon John N Jewett, of Chicago This will be followed by a recitation by Georgia Cayvan and music on the harp by Miss Harriet A Shaw, of Boston

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY

Matters Considered Monday

WASHINGTON, May 22 At the afternoon session of the Presbyterian General Assembly the report of the committee on Sabbath observance was considered President Warfield of Lafayette College, proposed as an additional recommendation that on the third Sunday of June there be sermons preached in all churches and prayers offered in behalf of the effort to keep the gates of the World's Fair closed Sunday

Rev Mr McCauley, of Dayton, offered another addition that in case the Sunday closing rule be violated the exhibit of the Presbyterian church be removed The report was considered and adopted

The report of the committee on education was presented by Rev Thomas Wing of Iowa He commended the work of the board and asked the assembly to give it $100 000 for work next year

Rev D W Poor, corresponding secretary of the board, detailed its workings The board's debt was reduced from $7,000 to $600 The secretary said the deficiency in the production of preachers is a tremendous fact that that the church must face Last year 1 234 churches were reported vacant, not even having a stated supply During the past six years the Presbyterian denomination was compelled to draw on other denominations for 550 ministers The recommendations of the committee were adopted

Recommendation that the Board of Education lend money to candidates who prefer to borrow rather than accept a gift the maximum amount loaned to be $150 per annum was adopted Rev Mr Reed, of the North China Presbytery presented the following referred to committee on Chinese exclusion act Resolved that this assembly desires to place on record an expression of its deep gratitude for the favors extended our missionaries and work in China by the Chinese authorities and for a settlement of the difficulties which existed especially in the Shantung Province; also for very valuable aid rendered by the United States Minister, Hon Charles Denby, who for the past eight years retained the friendship and esteem of all Americans in China and the Chinese imperial government.

The Assembly adjourned till to-morrow morning A popular meeting to-night, over which Rev Charles L. Thompson, D. D , of New York, presided, was held in the interest of education among the freedmen.

ROCKPORT, Mass , May 22. The New York crossed the finish line at 1 43 P M

A World Beater

BOSTON, May 22 With her forward torpedo tubes buried deep in the sea which was pushed almost as high as her forecastle, the armed cruiser New York steamed across the line to-day breaking the world's record and winning for her builders the largest premium ever paid in any country

When 21 knots were predicted as the speed of the new cruiser, but few believed that her engines would be able to drive such an immense structure of steel through the water at this rate When she crossed the line to-day, however, with a speed of 21 09 knots through the water, and some corrections yet to be added for the tide, the enthusiasm on board was intense The day's performance places the United States in the van amongst the navies of the world and gives us not only the most powerful, but the swiftest armored cruising vessel

Story of the Trip

At 7 30 all hands were called to get the cruiser under way Just as eight bells were sounding by the fishing fleet near by, the New York hoisted her ponderous anchor and headed for the open sea She moved off at an easy pace of about seventeen knots with her engines making 96 revolutions to the minute She gradually warmed up to the work and by the time the Vesuvius was in sight the cruiser was making over 20 knots with her engines spinning around about 130 turns to the minute

Gloucester was off the port beam at 9 A M Twenty five minutes later the New York went over the line making 130 revolutions a minute The steam pressure was 165 pounds to the square inch and the vessel was making a trifle over 20 knots In a few minutes the revolutions jumped to 135, and the steam to 170 pounds, both of which were held throughout the entire trip The Nina was passed at 9 46 Bennington 10 05, the Fern, the half way mark, 10 21, the tug Fortune 10 41, Leyden 11 09 the historic old Kearsarge 11 25

A neat turn was made and the race back over the course begun At 11 44 the Kearsarge was off the starboard beam with the New York headed to the southward The Leyden was passed at 12 04, Fortune 12 27 Fern 12 40, Bennington 1 01 Nina 1 20 and the Vesuvius 1 41 The entire course, 41 65 nautical miles, was steamed over twice On the first run the speed was 20 93 knots, the second 21 35 the difference being due to the tide, which was against the vessel on the trip north The average speed gives 21 09 knots, with a possibility of its being greater when the true current corrections are added

AT FARRAGUT'S GRAVE

Naval Veterans Pay Their Annual Tribute

A New York despatch says The Farragut Association of Naval Veterans, as sisted by Vice-Admiral Kazuakoff of the Imperial Russian Navy, his staff and officers of the Russian cruisers Dimitri Donskoi and Runda, paid their annual tribute to Admiral Farragut's memory Sunday afternoon in Woodlawn cemetery where the naval hero lies buried beside his wife, at the foot of an unassuming marble shaft

The Russian Admiral was met at the foot of Forty-second street by a committee composed of Joseph Hatfield, F H Grove, Lewis Richard and Capt Thomas Pickens of the old warship Brooklyn

At the Grand Central station the 5th corps of naval cadets, a detachment of the monitor crew from Brooklyn, and naval post 516, G A R , were in waiting

With the admiral were Capt E Zelenoy of the Dimitri Donskoi Capt A Krueger of the Runda, Flag Lieuts Colonougue and Apostole, Lieuts Remsky, Ko-sokoff, Shtowe Korobetnegin, Gredeakin Sub-Lieuts Teibe and Kouziz, of the Dimitri Donskoi, and Lieuts Boukhrostog, Hirakoff and Slers, Sub-Lieuts Marouroff and Consul General Olarovsky

The party reached Woodlawn by special train at 2 o'clock and was welcomed by the children of the Woodlawn Methodist Sunday school, who marched to the tomb to decorate the grave with wild flowers

The service consisted of prayers a eulogy by Chap Alman, of the National Veterans Association, and addresses by Capt B S Osborn, F H Grove and Capt John C Watson, of the San Francisco, who served under Farragut at New Orleans

Capt Osborn, as he ceased speaking, picked a bit of myrtle from the grave, which he presented to Admiral Kazuakoff

The admiral pressing his lips to the flower, advanced and said

"Brother veterans I speak for myself and my country to promise you their gratitude, and to say that during your war we watched you and your doings earnestly We were proud of the deeds of this man lying here as if he was one of our own countrymen Therefore I am happy to lay this wreath upon his tomb and to bow to his grave Sleep in glory in your resting place, Admiral Farragut You have served your country You have shown us how to fight and what to do You have added many glorious pages to the annals of your country"

Two Russian marines laid on the grave a large wreath of laurel and ivy leaves, in which were bedded clusters of lilies of the valley and May blossoms

As the Admiral finished speaking the nations hymn, "America," was sung by the school children, and a dozen little girls presented to the Russian officers handfuls of wild flowers, which the officers placed on the grave

A moment after the ground was strewn with the fragrant branches of purple lilac and with white blossoms thrown by the children

While the last of the blossoms fell to the ground Admiral Kazuakoff advanced this time with the imperial Russian colors in his hand, which he planted at the foot of the grave, saying to Capt Osborn

"In the name of Russia, I, as an honorary member of the National Association of Naval Veterans, present you this flag, our emblem, as a token of our friendship."

The exercises were closed by Chaplain Robert Edwards, who delivered the following benediction:

"Almighty God, ruler of nations, we render Thee gratefull thanks for the profound sentiments of unity and love here displayed on this auspicious occasion by the presence of our illustrious visitors in honor of the dust of our departed hero. May this union of hearts ever continue while eternal ages roll by and let the Russian bear and the American eagle shake paw and claw over this grave and swear eternal friendship until time shall be no more. May we be permitted after this life is over to meet on the quarter deck again in the glorious kingdom. Amen."

Admiral Kazuakoff's presence at the tomb of the first admiral of the United States Navy was especially fitting.

Admiral Farragut was received with honors by the Czar when he visited Russia with his flagship, the Hartford, in 1867. Admiral Kazuakoff was detailed to conduct the Hartford when she left Cronstadt behind her to sail for America, and he then made his first trip to the United States.

One of the most interested spectators of to-day's ceremonies was Loyall Farragut, the son of the Admiral and himself a lieutenant in the navy during war times. He is now a gray-haired man, with a kindly light in his eyes. As he stood silent in the crowd but few recognized him as the son of the man whose memory they were at that moment honoring.

BOILER EXPLOSION.

Beaver Mill Wrecked in New Hampshire.

Two Men Killed and Many Others Injured.

KEENE N. H , May 22 A battery of five boilers at Beaver Mills exploded at 12 20 P M to-day, badly wrecking the building and killing and injuring a number of persons The workmen had nearly all left the building and some had gathered in the boiler room to smoke and eat their dinners Herbert G Holton and Lewis W Starkey were killed, but their bodies are not yet extricated Frank Droulette, the fireman, and George H Carpenter are at the City Hospital, the former dangerously, and the latter seriously injured Gregory Carpenter, Michael Roch, George W Piper and William Clark were taken to their homes Others may be under the debris

Later

The Beaver Mills' boiler which exploded was of 120 horse power Its mate and three smaller boilers were blown from their places and the engine house completely demolished A section of the wall of the main building, forty feet long, was blown out letting down the second floor Here Herbert G Holton, a pail turner aged thirty, was killed by the falling wall The space between the boiler house and the main building on the north side is cool and in warm days the men gathered there to eat their dinners All others were injured

Frank Drollette, the fireman, was taken out alive but terribly crushed and burned and conveyed to the City Hospital, where he died He was thirty years old and leaves a wife and infant child Lewis W Starkey, pail turner, was crushed in the ruins The ruins took fire, but it was quenched by water from the hydrants and steamers

The Hartford Steam Boiler Insurance Company has $20,000 insurance on the property A large number of hands are thrown out of employment for some time as several manufacturers depended on the company for power The Beaver Mills Company does a large business in pails and pail stock There are also located here the Cheshire Chair Company, Keene Furniture Company the Humphrey Machine Company, Charles M Norwood and J Mason Reed both large manufacturers of packing boxes

FIRE RECORD.

$200 000 Blaze in Ohio

TIFFIN Ohio May 22 The immense plant of the Beatty Glass Works factory and the United States Glass Company, has been partly ruined by fire The loss aggregating nearly $200 000 and 600 persons were thrown out of employment The fire had its origin in the oil compressing room, oil being used as fuel in connection with natural gas It was probably caused by spontaneous combustion Within five minutes the entire rear and upper portions of the immense plant were in flames and the employes were compelled to flee for their lives, leaving clothing and tools Two were seriously burned The United States Glass Company paid $273 000 for the plant in January 1892 The loss on the building is about $50 000 and $150 000 on the stock fully covered by insurance

MINERS STRIKE

The Matter Growing More Grave

PITTSBURG, Kansas May 22 The latest developments in the strike of the coal miners has added phases of a grave character to the difficulty It seems most probable that the strike will spread all over the southwest The officials of the Santa Fe were expected to bring matters to arbitration but are reported to-day as opposed to the plan They insist with most other large operators in the determination to treat with the men as individuals instead of recognizing the Miners Union The trouble has organized itself into a struggle between organized labor and capital

Five hundred miners in Cherokee and Crawford counties and miners in the Yale district went out to day, and all strip miners, it is said will quit to-night Yesterday President Walker received word from the miners in Indian Territory that they will go out when the executive board of Kansas miners gives the word

The great conundrum yesterday appeared to be to guess the reason for removing the concrete on the bridge. The answer given out was that said concrete was not wearing well and it was proposed to replace it with granite paving. Possibly the concrete may not have been wearing well under wheels, but it seemed to be wearing admirably under the drills and picks of the crew who after whaling away at it for an hour or two at a time employed a microscope to see if they could discover any cracks as a result of their furious onslaught. The general impression was that a much easier way out of the difficulty would have been the application of a few more barrels of cement.

AMUSEMENTS

"The County Fair"

The return engagement of that well known theatrical success "The County Fair" at the Opera House last night was again received with much favor by a good sized audience, which well enjoyed the exponent of life "down on the farm" It is one of the best of the bucolic comedy dramas and its merit has been well demonstrated by the evident appreciation of the public since its debut

The play is pleasing, amusing and interesting from the role of "Abigail Prue," made famous by Neil Burgess, to the lesser parts and keeps the audience in the utmost good humor throughout The race at the county fair is the great scene of the play and it is an excellent mechanical contrivance requiring skillful work behind the scenes

Five lithe limbed racers ran last evening and the scene was finely put on As usual there was much enthusiasm when "Cold Molasses" won by a neck The County Fair Quartette sang with pleasing harmony and the audience was so well pleased that several well deserved encores were given The company throughout was well chosen there being but few changes since the previous appearance here

Miss Bates made a very quaint and amusing "Abigail Prue" and Mr Burton's "Otis Tucker" is as comical as ever Miss Ballou was a bright and lively "Taggs" and Miss Salisbury a pleasing "Sally Greenway" The other roles were in good hands

The concluding presentation will be given this evening and deserves a large audience

The Dora Wiley Popular Concert

Mr Dudley Prescott, who appears at the "Wiley popular concert" on Thursday evening at the Opera House, is considered to be one of the finest entertainers on the stage to-day His recitations, imitations, etc , are extremely funny while his manipulations of common paper with perfect sound imitations of the different musical instruments which he so rapidly manufactures is really marvellous Miss Wiley has received so many requests for ballads notably "The song that reached my heart," that all her selections will be made from that class of song

Water Works Ensured.

A special town meeting was held at Newport yesterday morning and it was voted by an overwhelming majority to contract with the Newport Water Company for fifteen hydrants and two water tubs, the town to pay four hundred dollars per annum for same for a period of five years. This action ensures the success of the water works.

FIRES MONDAY

Farm Buildings of W F. Brann, Esq., Destroyed—Mr H W Smith's Residence Slightly Damaged.

An alarm of fire from box 38, on Hammond street at the corner of Webster road, yesterday noon was followed at about 12 30 by alarms from boxes 47 and 46 and the fire department was soon on its way to the scene of the fire which was found to be in the farm building on 13th street, owned by W F Brann, Esq , and occupied by Mr J M Johnson and family

The fire had attained such headway and the place was so far distant from a hydrant that it was impossible to save the buildings, which were levelled flat with the ground There was a heavy wind blowing at the time directly across the buildings from the barn where the fire caught and the flames spread with great rapidity

Six cows, two heifers a valuable horse one of Mr Brann's pair, and a pig were burned and all the farming tools machinery, implements, etc , were destroyed Some of the household furniture was saved but the greater part of it was burned, as there was no time to take much out owing to the quickly spreading flames which were all through the house in a very short space of time

The cause of the fire is unknown Mr Johnson was at dinner when it started and seeing the smoke he ran out into the barn which was all ablaze, the fire having started in the back part He tried to get the horse and other animals out but could not do so being driven from the barn by the flames and dense smoke

There has recently been a fire in a patch of woods and underbrush about half a mile distant and it is possible that a spark may have been blown over and lodged on the barn Mr Brann estimates the loss as $2,600 and there is an insurance of $1 400 in the agency of Blake, Barrows & Brown $1,000 on the buildings and $400 on the contents

Owing to the high wind large pieces of burning shingle were flying through the air and some of them were carried as far as West Broadway half a mile away from the fire and one of them was seen by C F Sweet, Esq , to fall upon the roof of Mr H W Smith's handsome new house on West Broadway, adjoining his own residence and he at once gave the alarm

Some of Mr Duffy's workmen happened to be near by and a fire company was quickly organized Mr Sweet got a ladder and by means of pails of water the fire was extinguished It had burned a hole in the roof at one of the gables, about as large as a hat and was following along the wood work inside The upper portion of the house was filled with smoke The damage will be comparatively slight and is covered by insurance

Soon after these fires Chief Parker's attention was attracted by smoke in the Kenduskeag stream region and he rode some distance it having been reported that some ice houses were being burned, but upon reaching high land found that the fire was several miles away probably at Six Mile Falls It supposed that it was a brush fire

OBITUARY

Nicholas R Huston

News was received in this city yesterday of the death, at four o clock Sunday morning of Mr Nicholas R Huston , of Winn, at the age of 79 years and three months Mr Huston was one of the most prominent, as well as most highly respected citizens of the upper Penobscot and his homestead in Winn was the finest in the town He was born at North Yarmouth, Me , Feb 13, 1814 the oldest son of Elijah Huston, and on starting out for himself after attaining his majority he found himself possessed of a fair common school education, a good constitution and a pair of hands with which to help himself These, however with energy economy, perseverance, good judgment and business ability have enabled him to make a success in business life

He commenced life on his own account on a farm in Gray where he worked five months at the stipend of twelve dollars a month which at that time was high wages for farm labor In 1836 he went to Lincoln where he engaged with Charles Merrill to take charge of his mill and lumber business, together with his farm where he received for his services twenty dollars a month Here he continued until 1850 when he purchased a half interest in the business On the death of Mr Merrill in 1861 he bought the other half of the property, the mill the farm and hundreds of acres of timber land enabling him to cut his own timber, bring it to the mill and manufacture it employing ten to fifteen men through the year

He remained in Lincoln until 1873 when he sold his property there and removed to Winn near the village, where he has since erected a fine set of farm buildings, commanding a fine view of the Penobscot River He married Miss Abbie M Brown They had no children but adopted two and gave a home to another He never engaged in public life preferring to give his attention to his own business but was a sterling Republican in politics and gave an earnest support to the country in its hours of need For several years he served as a member of the Board of Selectmen of Winn By his close attention to business he acquired a competency enabling him to pass the closing years of his life in ease

His sickness was not of long duration but it is believed to have been aggravated by, if not the result of, a blow upon the head from a fence rail accidentally received last winter Among his relatives is Chief of Police Gilman of this city, who was a nephew In his death he carries with him the esteem of all his fellow townsmen and others who have had the pleasure of his acquaintance

The funeral will take place from his late residence this afternoon at 1 o clock

Match Shoot

A number of the representatives of different gun clubs throughout the State are making arrangements to take part in a match shoot on the grounds of the Bath Gun Club at Woolwich on June 8th for the handsome badge offered by the John P Lovell Arms Company. The Norombega Sportsmen's Club may be represented at the shoot, but no definite arrangements have as yet been made

The badge will be contested for by teams of five shooters, each team representing some Maine club The teams to compete will probably be from Lewiston, Belfast, Fairfield, Waterville, Skowhegan, Richmond, Bangor, Ellsworth, Portland, Augusta and perhaps teams from some of the new clubs recently formed, and the gunners are now practicing with the view of capturing that badge if it is a possible thing

The shooting will be done under the rules of the American Shooting Association.

The badge is gold and a beauty. On the bar is the word "Champion" and under it appear the words, "Presented by the John P. Lovell Arms Company." Suspended from this is the main part of the badge on which is an appropriate design skillfully executed, and showing a shooter at the trap in the act of making a shot. Over this are the words "Maine Team." This part is suspended from the bar with chains, which, like the rest of the badge are of gold.

A WILD RUNAWAY

Team Horse With the Speed of a Racer

A horse attached to a jigger belonging to the Public Works Company became frightened on State street yesterday morning and the driver losing control of him, the animal ran down the hill and across the bridge at great speed On the bridge the barrels where the workmen are engaged were scattered in all directions and there were several narrow escapes from collisions with carriages and teams

The runaway continued on through West Market Square where the jigger struck J L Ellingwood's public carriage and damaged it considerably In front of W P Dickey & Co's a carriage with a lady occupant, was standing and the jigger struck it throwing it upon the sidewalk and partially overturning it The occupant was caught by clerks in the store as she was falling and was not injured

This horse then started on [illegible] run on his own hook down Broad street but was finally captured The first runaway continued on down Broad street and struck several teams on the way with more or less damage and finally turned up Union street where after running some distance he was captured

Excellent Outlook

Already people who have cottages at Bar Harbor are passing through the city on their way to that resort to open and occupy their summer residences and the resort will be duly appreciated this year as in previous years During the past winter several fine cottages have been erected there Among those who have built are J B Musgrave of New York George R Fullins of New York H[illegible] McMillan of Detroit Dr J D Jones [illegible] Washington D C Charles Frye of [illegible]ton Mrs Daniel Kimball of Boston Jesse Hoyt of New York Mrs George Pendleton Bowler of Cincinnati [illegible] Reuben Hoyt of New York

The demand for cottages is greater than was ever known Among those who have secured rents for the season are many prominent people all over the country

The schooner John Douglas is at Bucksport for repairs. She was formerly commanded by Capt. C. W. Jordan, of this city, but her present commander is Capt. Erskine.

The trees are now rapidly putting forth their leaves, and some of them already make quite an amount of shade. It will not be long before they will be completely leaved out.

Mr. W. H. Merrill has bargained for the purchase of the Blaisdell house, on Wilson street, and will buy it. He will take possession about the first of July and will move his family to it.

Mr. Edwin S. Atwood returned to Northeast Harbor yesterday, after a visit of a few days at his home in this city. Mr. Atwood has a fine livery stable at Northeast Harbor and a large and growing business.

A log which caught under the wharf and over one of the floats at the Bangor end of the ferry line yesterday afternoon came near forcing the float under water as the tide rose. A little work with a pick pole put it out of the way however.

Superintendent of Oak Hill Cemetery, S. A. Hall, is busy just at present, putting the yard in fine shape for Memorial Day. The cemetery is being cleared up, stones set and lots graded, and by Memorial Day, which is a week from to-day, all will be ready.

Mr. Walter Farrington, the Centre street jeweler, has got in a large, new stock of various kinds of jewelry, watches, etc., and if you wish anything of the kind it will pay to give him a call. His show window is very attractively arranged and many stop to admire it.

For two or three days but one car has been running on the electric railroad, and at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon the other broke down or burned out and for a few hours there was no service at all on the line, the patrons of the road getting a little healthy exercise walking to their destinations.

Many friends were deeply pained to learn of the death of Mrs. Waldo H. Kingsbury, of South Brewer, which occurred at her home there, Friday. She was 32 years of age and was born in Bradford. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon. She leaves a husband and two young boys, and to these will be extended the sympathy of all.

The first to leave port of the new steamers which have been built at Barbour's yard during the winter season, was the Islesford. This trim little craft left yesterday forenoon for Cranberry Isles, where she will be used as an excursion boat, for towing purposes and otherwise. She was saluted by the other steamers in the river as she went.

Up to date 204 dogs have been licensed in the city, the largest number for which fees have been paid since Brewer became a city. But few canines have been killed as yet. Quite a large number of licenses have come in since the 10th inst., the date after which the shooting of unlicensed dogs was to commence—dog owners evidently finding that the officers were in earnest in the matter.

Mr. Edgar White met with an unfortunate accident yesterday afternoon. He has for two or three years been suffering with an injured leg and it was just getting nearly well again. Yesterday, however, while playing with another young man, he fell so as to badly sprain the injured member and is again confined to his bed. His many friends will hope that he may soon recover from the effects of the accident.

The street light on the corner, at Penobscot Square, has failed to give any light during several nights past, and residents of the vicinity are making strong objections to not having the lamp in working order. This is one of the most important of the lights in the city, as there is probably more passing at that point during the night than at any other, and it seems as though it should be kept burning. Trouble has been experienced with it on previous occasions.

FIRED INTO THE TRAIN.

Bold Attempt of the Starr Gang to Rob an Express in the Cherokee Strip—Cavalry in Pursuit.

TOPEKA, Kan., May 20, 1893. An attempt was made by the Starr gang of desperadoes to rob the north bound express train of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company in the Cherokee Strip at about nine o'clock last night.

When the train reached Guthrie, O. T., it was reported that the Starr gang was at some point on the track north of there and that an attempt was to be made to stop the train when approaching Ponca.

The train was stopped and a messenger was sent ahead to reconnoitre. A reasonable time was given him to return, but as he failed to do so the train pulled out, passing the depot without stopping. Six of the Starr gang were standing on the depot platform, and when they saw that the train was not going to stop a volley was fired into the express car.

The train stopped a short distance north of the station, near Ponca Bridge, and Superintendent Stockton, of the Wells-Fargo Express Company, and Deputy United States Marshal Heck Thomas left the cars and started back toward the depot. As they did so three of the Starr men rode toward the train, and succeeded in getting between Thomas and Stockton and the cars. The train then pulled over the bridge, and no attempt was made to molest the two men on foot.

In the meantime the citizens of Ponca had been aroused, and the three train robbers who remained at the depot were compelled to flee without their horses. They went a half mile east, where a company of cavalry were encamped, and stealing three horses, made their escape. The cavalry went in pursuit as soon as the theft was discovered.

There are now several posses of citizens in the Strip hunting the train robbers.

Separating Cream.

Dr. Andrew H. Ward, of Boston, recommends the dilution and cooling of milk for creaming, as follows. It looks like what came into vogue two years ago:

Milk has been produced almost since time began. Its products, butter and cheese, are under investigation and experiment at the present time. By keeping the milk, the cream or fatty portion rises to the surface. Various ways have been used for "setting" the milk for this purpose—formerly in shallow pans with the use of a skimmer, by which process a notable quantity of the cream was not gathered, and much expense for cans and care of the same.

Later on the deep-setting cans have been more used. When possible, the milk in them has been cooled by setting the cans in cool running water, or by putting them in a cabinet, surrounding the cans with ice; also by putting the milk in tight cans and submerging them in cold or ice water. The butter made from the cream in the submerged cans has not that delicacy of flavor of butter from cream raised in open cans, and is readily detected by a critical observer. More recently mechanical separators of various makes have come into use, operated by power and also by hand. They require not only nice adjustment and mechanical ability to operate, but money to buy them.

The last method, which is fast coming into use wherever it is known, is very simple, inexpensive, a saving of ice and labor, and very easily demonstrated, as it can be tried without expense by any one who has the milk and can.

The milk, warm from the cow, is strained into a can till it is half filled; then fill up the can with cold spring or well water, which aerates the milk and immediately reduces its temperature to about 70°, even in the warmest of weather. All the cream will separate and rise to the surface in less than four hours. The combined milk and water is drawn by a faucet from the bottom of the can till the cream appears, which is then drawn into a separate vessel. As the cream is separated in less than four hours, the cans used for the morning's milk are ready to be used for the night's milk. All that need go into the house is the cream, thus lightening the labor there, which is very much needed.

The diluted milk is fed to the pigs, the costly butter fat extracted from it being replaced by the cheaper fat in corn meal in such proportions as are needed to feed to growing or fattening stock. No time is lost and no labor required by the dilution process. As soon as the milk is mixed with water the separation is going on naturally while the farmer is attending to other duties. In four hours or less the cream can be taken. This quick, inexpensive process, requiring no ice even in the warmest of weather, enables the farmer to convert his cream into butter at home without the expense of carrying or having it carried to a creamery; it also enables those farmers who are supplying the large markets to maintain a fair price for their milk. They can manufacture it into butter for a time and reduce the quantity of milk sent to market till it will command a fair price. The farmers can control the price of milk, if they wish, instead of the contractors dictating what they shall take. Any improvement in dairying that will cheapen the cost of production will run up the same as an increase in the selling price. Good pastures are an essential element in profitable dairying.

Cropping with Commercial Manures.

The Maine Farmer says: We have been much interested in the reading of a little pamphlet, entitled "Chemicals and Clover," in which the writer, H. W. Collingwood, of the Rural New-Yorker, gives a description of some of the successful farm operations carried on in the vicinity of New York City, both in New Jersey and on Long Island, with the use of high grade complete manures alone. The theory of feeding plants for the production of crops, is that it makes no difference to the growing plant from what source it receives its supply of food (manure), so that it is in a form readily available for its use, or in other words, so dissolved that it may be taken up into its circulation by the rootlets of the plant. It has been a question, however, among farmers there, and not yet answered to their satisfaction in the affirmative, whether successful cropping of the soil can be carried on any considerable length of time without the accompaniment of cattle and their resulting manure. It is quite certain that they have not made cropping with chemicals alone fully successful. In our own case, through repeated experiments in this direction, we must admit to a share of the disappointment, and a measure of the doubt as to a full success with this method of manuring for crops. So, when the author of this little pamphlet goes on to describe in detail the marked success of farmers who are farming with chemical manures alone on a large scale, we were all attention and ready to learn how it was done.

Mr. Collingwood gives an account of a visit to Cranberry, N. J., where this system of farming with chemicals has been carried on for fifteen years—certainly long enough to test the practice. There he found a community of farmers growing rich at producing hay, potatoes, corn and wheat without the keeping of cattle.

For the purpose of giving our readers information as to how this success with concentrated fertilizers is accomplished, and in continuation of the subject of "clover as a fertilizer," given in the Farmer a few weeks ago, we condense from the pamphlet a description of the farm operations of one of these fertilizer farmers, showing his system of profitable crop production without dependence on barn manures.

Mr. D. C. Lewis, the pioneer of this system of farming, has a hundred acre farm, including woodland, pasture and house lot, yet keeps only four cows and his farm teams. He manures with high-grade fertilizer, and raises crops for sale. His farm is growing more productive each year, and the owner is making money.

Rotation of crops is the basis of this system. Four crops are grown, in a five years' course, or five-course system, as the Europeans would call it. The crops are, in the order named, potatoes, wheat, clover and Timothy two years, and corn. This grass sod plays a prominent part in this fertilizer farming, and is absolutely indispensable to success. Decomposed, and mingled with the soil, it furnishes the supply of humus necessary to go with the use of chemical manures, while at the same time it contributes its store of fertilizing material to assist in manuring the land.

Liberal applications of high-grade fertilizer is another element of success. Potatoes are planted with 1,500 pounds or more of the fertilizer to the acre—1,000 pounds broadcasted, and 500 pounds or more used in the drills. After the crop of potatoes is harvested, the ground is plowed and seeded to wheat in the fall, with Timothy, and clover added the next spring. After two years of grass the little stable manure made is applied in summer on the sod, the aftermath being permitted to grow and decay on the ground. This is all plowed in the spring and the ground planted to corn, to be followed by the same rotation over again. Mr. Lewis thinks he will find it profitable to use still more of the fertilizer than has yet been his practice. He is convinced that most failures with the use of fertilizers are due to the fact that not enough was used. Here is a practical illustration of profitable farming substantially without the presence and consequent labor of farm stock. The saving of labor in such a system, though the absence of all care of stock, or the expensive handling of manure is easily seen, and is a matter that goes a great way to the credit of this farming with chemicals, and at the same time is a partial solution of the perplexing problem of labor on the farm. The system made so successful in the case here cited is based on.

1. A judicious rotation of crops.
2. A frequent return of the grass sod in the rotation.
3. A liberal use of the chemical manures, and
4. Their application to a crop that will respond promptly to their presence and bring quick returns from the market.

The theory is entirely plausible, and many farmers are already successfully illustrating its practicability.

PROFITS IN SPRAYING.

The following are the conclusions reached at the Ohio experiment station in regard to profits in spraying orchards and vineyards: The profit to be derived from spraying orchards often exceeds $20 per acre, and for vineyards a much more. The fruit crop of the state would be enhanced in value by several million dollars annually if the practice were generally followed. Combined fungicides and insecticides are recommended whenever applicable, because of a saving of time, a less liability of injuring foliage, greater efficiency in some cases, and as a precautionary measure [illegible] others. Dilute Bordeaux mixture [illegible] arsenic solution of copper [illegible] the most useful for the [illegible] of the diseases herein mentioned, and the first has the widest range of usefulness of all. Early spraying is the key to success in the use of fungicides.

For the plum curculio and shot-hole fungus use Bordeaux mixture and Paris green combined, making three or four applications. It is not known that this treatment will prevent the black knot, but cutting away and burning the diseased branches will accomplish the result. Scabby apples rot much earlier than those free from scab, and spraying with fungicides will save at least 50 per cent. of this loss. Spraying with fungicides in the season of 1892 prevented much of the early dropping of apples which is usually attributed to wet weather. For apples, two applications of Bordeaux mixture before blooming are advised, and two of the same mixture after blooming, with Paris green added. The same treatment is recommended for the pear as for the apple, before blooming, but the copper-arsenic solution is advised after blooming.

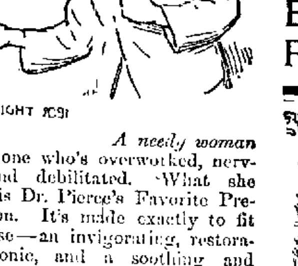

The Bordeaux mixture, if used too late, causes a russet appearance on both pears and apples. The quince may be treated the same way as apples or with the Bordeaux mixture alone. The treatment advised for the cherry consists in making two or three applications of Paris green, two ounces to fifty gallons of water. Peach trees and American varieties of plums have very tender foliage and must be treated with very weak mixtures, if at all. Raspberries may be treated with Bordeaux mixture alone; grapes with the same until the fruit sets, after which use copper carbonate. Potatoes should be sprayed at least five times with Bordeaux mixture and Paris green.

LATEST PUBLICATIONS.

A Condensed and Comprehensive Life of Abraham Lincoln.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN, by John T. Morse, Jr., in two volumes. This is the latest in the American Statesmen series. It is a book which will be of much value to all American citizens and patriots and especially to the young who have come upon the scene of action too late to be contemporary with the martyred President and cognizant of the great events in which he was a grand central figure. Volume One begins with his start in life, his ancestry and early environments and closes with the controversy with England growing out of the seizure of Mason and Slidell upon the Steamer Trent. Volume Two begins with a chapter on Emancipation and Politics and closes with the Fall of Richmond and the Assassination of President Lincoln. Price $2.50. Published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, and for sale by D. Bugbee & Co.

JOYS BEYOND THE THRESHOLD, a sequel to "The To-morrow of Death," by Louis Feguier, translated by Abby Langdon Alger. In this book the author desires to give the practical sanction of the principle that the certainty of a new birth after our earthly end is the best means of divesting ourselves of all weakness in the presence of death, and that the help offered by science and philosophy to take that tremendous step bravely is far superior to that presented by any of the existing religions. Price $1.25. Published by Roberts Brothers, Boston, and for sale by D. Bugbee & Co.

A needy woman—the one who's overworked, nervous, and debilitated. What she needs is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It's made exactly to fit her case—an invigorating, restorative tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nervine, giving tone and vigor to the whole system. But it isn't a mere stimulant. It's a legitimate medicine, that an experienced physician has carefully prepared, for woman's ailments. All the functional derangements, chronic weaknesses, and painful disorders peculiar to the sex, are corrected and cured by it.

And because it's a certain remedy, it can be made a guaranteed one. If it fails to give satisfaction, in any case, you have your money back.

The best pill costs less than any other. Costs less, but does more. They're smaller, too, and easier to take. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best pills. They regulate perfectly the liver, stomach, and bowels
